

GIRL CHAUFFEUR'S AUTO KILLS CHILD; TWO OTHERS DEAD

Young Woman Is Arrested
When Car She Is Learning to Drive Takes Toll.

The month of June, when the children begin enjoying to the fullest the open air, has a good start in the number of motor car mishaps to the little ones, according to to-day's official records. One was killed yesterday in Manhattan, and one in Queens.

Marjorie Colyer, six, of No. 55 53d Street, Corona, Queens, died in the Flushing Hospital last night from a fracture of the skull she received, the police say, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Catherine Cleary, sixteen, of No. 284 Whitestone Avenue, Flushing, who was learning to drive and had no operator's license. Miss Cleary was arrested and held for examination.

The Manhattan police reported that John Donato, nine, of No. 1592 Madison Avenue, was crushed to death by an automobile moving van at 106th Street and Fifth Avenue, operated by George W. Birch, fifty-eight, a negro, who was held.

While crossing First Avenue at 59th Street, William Oeser, seven, of No. 217 East 70th Street, ran against the rear mudguard of an automobile and is in Flower Hospital.

Alvin Hillsdorf, twenty-three, of No. 1571 Forest Avenue, the Bronx, was struck by a touring car in front of No. 170 Fulton Street yesterday. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital where he died from internal injuries.

Julius Rosenberg, forty-eight, of No. 222 Cherry Street, was struck by an automobile in front of No. 157 Lexington Avenue, sustaining injuries to the left knee and foot. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Gustave Leum, four, of No. 56 Pearl Street, sustained a possible fracture of the skull when struck by an automobile in front of No. 59 Cherry Street. He was removed to Volunteer Hospital.

Catherine Mahone, thirty-four, of No. 235 East 37th Street, received lacerations of the scalp when struck by a car at 33d Street and Fifth Avenue. She was removed to Bellevue.

Louis Pretting, four, was hit by an automobile in front of his home, No. 70 East 118th Street. He was attended at Beth David Hospital for abrasions of the head.

MRS. COLER DENIES COLD FLAT CHARGE

Wife of Welfare Commissioner
Says She Orders Coal for Brooklyn Apartments.

Mrs. Bird S. Coler, wife of the Commissioner of Public Welfare and owner of the apartment house at No. 170 New York Avenue, Brooklyn, where she lives, took the stand to-day in the Flatbush Court to defend herself against a charge that she had failed to supply sufficient heat and hot water. The action was brought by E. Stuart Hupp, one of her tenants.

Mrs. Coler denied that she had told her janitor to shut down the heat from April 15, and also that she had directed him to turn refuse, as she did not intend to order any more coal. She stated that she had directed her real estate agent, M. C. O'Brien, on April 1 to get 100 tons of coal for the apartment house. In that month, she said, ten or fifteen tons had been received, but later she admitted that the house furnace consumed about one ton a day.

Magistrate Short adjourned the case till Saturday.

COUPLE REUNITE, THEN DIE BY GAS

Mr. and Mrs. Newhouse Made Merry
After Year's Separation; Tragedy Follows.

Frederick Newhouse died in City Hospital last night from gas poisoning. He and his wife, Rose, were found in a gas-filled room in the home of Mrs. Newhouse's mother, Mrs. Christine Mauthe, at No. 292 South 6th Street, on Monday. The couple had been married three years, but had been separated a year. Mrs. Mauthe went out Memorial Day, leaving her daughter at home.

When she returned she fell over the body of her son-in-law in her daughter's room. His wife was dead on the bed. Newhouse died without regaining consciousness. The police theory is that the couple may have entered a suicide pact. Two jets in the room were open. The couple had two bottles of wine, one was empty and the other partly filled. Newhouse called on his wife after Mrs. Mauthe had left and the couple had been singing and playing the piano.
